FOR PRESIDENT,

Hon, David R. Atchison. of Missouri.

The Squatter Sovereign office has been removed to the corner of A and Second Streets.

Notice to Subscribers.

We request all our subscribers who have not raid for the Squatter Sovereign to de so before the 1st of January. Those of them who wish their paper continued must remit us the Subscription price in advance. Our next volume will be sent to no one who does not comply with the above terms .-We have tried the credit system and the result has proven a loss of nearly three thousand dollars. If our friends extend to us the same liberal patronage they bestowed the last year, we promise them a much larger and greatly improved sheet. We would like to receive a leter from all of our present patrons, requesting us to continue their paper. It would make us feel that our feel le efforts in behalf of the Pro-Slavery cause had been appreciated and approved, by a generous public.

The North and the South.

If the present Congress be an index the character of the North, it is certain that no more slave States will ever be admitted into the Union. What will be the condition of the slave States in a few years, encircled as they would be by this wall, I eyond which no negro, bond or free. would be allowed to pass? We are not willing even to think of the horrors which would ensue.

can and will be tested. At the next gene liv wmember the 21 1855 to all he it may ral election in this Territory, the questade of convention, or no convention, will be presented to the people, and will be sure to carry, and the legislature which will then be elected will take steps for a speedy judging of the future by the past,-wil recognise slavery, and will be presented to a Congress yet to be elected, that the Nort. harence because their came an express to terruption from its chivalrous (?) inhabiting a list of the voting precincts and judges. This proposition. may have time to deliberately take her me that she was invaded by an armed stand. What will the North do?

We are told that the great body of the North is sound, and willing to do the South full justice. We are afraid that it is not true; and should the next Congress refuse the admission of Kunsas as a slave State should she go up with such a constitution. what will the South do? This is a most important question, and one that the whole press of the South should ask themselves and readers. They should urge upon the North the necessity of electing a delegafully represent their feelings and inten- me tions, that there may be no misconceptions: that upon the action of said delegation depends the perpetuity of the Union; that we are for the Union as long as it protects us - so long as we can feel and know that the North looks or on as Frothers, as equals But when the Union only operates to our oppression and final destruction; when we recognise enemies, not friends, in the North, we neither desire, nor will have any longer a Union with it.

We wish this issue fairly and honestly made, that the real feelings of the two sections may be ascertained.

That upon the issue of the application on the part of Ransas for admission as a slave State depends the Union, we have not the shadow of a doubt. Feeling thus. we wish the matter fairly tested. We wish the people, North and South, to think informed by a contractor, that he has alto shoot at any one, he has been in a had though their Lusiness called them on they

A Literary Production.

The following significant production has been in circulation in Audition during the past week. It emanates from a man who has proved recreant to the State that gave him birth. Although he, in his peculiar style, denies a statement to the effect that he is one of the party to burn Atchison, his own admission proves that he is in full tellowship with the traitors at Lawrence. and even shouldered his gun and marched in their defence, against the law and order party of Kansas Territory. In a state of universal and absolute quality there can be no bond of union and consequently no strength nor stalidity; because, there being no inequalities, there could be no dependencies, and there being o dependencies, there could be no mutual attachments, which are the strongest cords of union and strength.

From inequalities come mutual and reciprocal dependencies, which in turn create mutual attachments, and these are the aggregate powers of attraction and toler. sion, which, when not destroyed Lyadrerse and disturbing causes, bind man to man state to state, and nations to nations. This is the constitutional arrangement of Nature. This is the ordination of God. But fanatics and foots, madmen, and your dreaming transcendental philosophers are always at work to break up and desolve this order of God and Nature.

The conclusion, then, to which we come pendencies, and dependencies create attachments, and attachments necessarily create union, and in union is concentrated all the collective aggregate particles of strength; and hence you have improvement and progress to their utmost extent. And all this beautiful and combined result has its origin in the conjugal relation in the family circle. This is the source of its earthly fountain; and thence it flows First, with respect to motion. Were all yout into society, and from society into the state, and thence into the world.

But where there are no inequalities-il ucina place or society could be foundthere can be no dependencies, and no atimprovement or progress. All would be nanimate coldness, disorder, anarchy, and
